

ABSTRACT

METHOD FOR ALLOCATING RADIO COMMUNICATION RESOURCES IN A SELF-ORGANIZING RADIO COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM

Radio communication resources are allocated in an at least partially self-organising radio communications system having several user stations and at least one central entity for organizing the allocation of radio communication resources, in addition to a corresponding radio communications system. Resources for direct communication between at least two respective user stations are allocated repeatedly at least partly by the central entity.